

From Carroll University's Arts Integration Series: Enhancing Literacy through Art

The National Writing Project at Carroll University and the Milwaukee Art Museum invite you to attend a two-day Writing and Art Workshop

- WHO: Teachers in grades K-12, all content areas.
All levels of confidence and ability in writing are encouraged and welcome. We encourage schools and districts to send a team of teachers. A team might be two, or more.
- WHERE: Milwaukee Art Museum, Quadracci Suite
700 N Art Museum Drive, Milwaukee, WI
- WHEN: March 7 and 21, 2015
9 a.m. – 3 p.m.
- WHAT: Using the MAM and Collections as inspiration, participants will:
- Learn writing strategies to immediately implement in the classroom: community building, writer response groups, pre-writing, revising, editing, assessing, "going public."
  - Learn how to support reluctant writers and readers through visualization.
  - Experience the writing process in a supportive and resourceful environment, while working on a personal piece.
  - Take back ideas for integrating writing and visual representation into any curriculum.
  - Benefit from the beauty of the Milwaukee Art Museum as a stimulus for your writing and learning.

FEES AND CREDIT:

- A $150 registration fee includes Museum general admission, coffee and morning snacks, a sandwich buffet lunch provided by the Museum Café, course materials and Docent tour.
- Earn an optional 1, 2 or 3 graduate education credits from Carroll University.
(The cost for one graduate credit is $495. Registrants enrolling for grad credit are waived the $150 registration fee.)
